Tanner stage - pubic hair

Stage 1: no hair

5

Stage 2: downy hair

Stage 3: scant terminal hair

Stage 4: terminal hair that fills the entire triangle overlying the pubic region

Stage 5: terminal hair that extends beyond the inguinal crease onto the thigh

Female tanner stage - breast

Stage 1: no glandular breast tissue palpable

6

Stage 2: breast bud palpable under areola (1st pubertal sign in females)

Stage 3: breast tissue palpable outside areola; no areolar development

Stage 4: areola elevated above contour of the breast, forming
"double scoop" appearance

Stage 5: areolar mound recedes back into single breast contour with areolar hyperpigmentation, papillae development and nipple protrusion

Form: Serious Adverse Event Report (SERAE)

Generated On: 2023 Jun 20 09:23

(Version: AZ2209 2022-12-15)

This form is dynamically created based on response to Serious Criteria on the Adverse Event form.

Serious Adverse forms should never be inactivated or reactivated manually. To inactivate a Serious Adverse Event form, update response to Serious question on the Adverse Event form.

Once inactivated the SAE form will never get reactivated. Only option is to create a new SAE form by updating the Serious question from No to Yes on Adverse Event form.

If there is a need to edit adverse event data already entered and saved, never use field-level Edit icons (Pencils to the right of the fields) as individual e-mail alerts will be sent for every single modified field. Instead, use the form-level Edit icon (Pencil on top of the form) and open the whole form for edition, enter all required changes and save the data.
